From "CAMBRIDGE," illustrated by W. Matthison (A. & C. Black).

Trinity College Gateway, here shown, was constructed about 1518-35, the structure bearing, immediately over the archway, panels commemorative of King Edward III. and his six sons. Trinity College was founded in 1546 by Henry VIII., and occupies the site of older foundations. The greater part of the buildings now in existence date from the 16th and 17th centuries.
